Our code of conduct

Resource Participation Standards

To ensure a safe environment for one another, we agree to:

1. Maintain confidentiality for all individuals in attendance.
2. Only allow those individuals who have completed the registration process to be present for sessions in order to maintain the integrity of the collective dynamic.
3. Allow one another the opportunity to share, without any pressure to do so should someone choose not to. We agree that each person has the right to share and the right not to share, including the right to not answer a question posed.
4. Limit distractions to the best of each attendee's ability, i.e. side conversations, cell phone interruptions, etc.
5. Do our best to arrive on time, with an awareness that the session will begin no later than 5 minutes past the scheduled time. If arriving late, we agree to join in where the facilitator currently is on the outline.
6. Approach all interactions with the following in mind: individuals have come from all different backgrounds, with different experiences and different worldviews. Not everyone feels the same way, thinks the same way, or believes the same way. With this, we agree to offer understanding and respect to one another in humility.
 - a. Please note: All session resources have been written and will be taught by the facilitator from the Christian Worldview.
